MR. AND MRS. HARRY GROVES
... married 50 years.

Over 400 friends and neighbors turned out last Wednesday evening to help Mr. and Mrs. Harry Groves celebrate their golden wedding anniversary in the Carseland Hall. They were the recipients of many presents, and many warm wishes for a continued life together.

During the evening Mr. Alex Warneck acted as master of ceremonies and started the program rolling with a short community singing, which was followed by T. E. Wright leading a round of Allons-y, G. H. Patrick and Dr. J. Giffen both sang a couple of comic songs, which were enthusiastically received by the audience. A quartet composed of Mrs. S. R. Hunt, Mrs. T. S. Hughes, Dr. Giffen and Mr. Patrick completed the formal part of the entertainment. Musical accompaniment throughout was provided by Miss Jean Garrett.

On behalf of the Strathmore Masonic Lodge, of which Mr. Groves is a member, and past master, Mr. Harold Bell presented both Mr. and Mrs. Groves with a lovely large bouquet of golden mums. Harry Groves, Jr., then presented each of his parents with a wrist watch from the members of the family. In doing so, Mr. Groves spoke of the spirit of his parents when they had come to the homestead forty-six years ago, and breaking the original sod. Remembering briefly his own part in helping to establish the farm Mr. Groves suggested that the country of today had been built around such pioneers as his parents, and their spirit. In accepting for himself and his wife, Mr. Groves, Sr., stressed the support they had always received from their friends, and expressed their very warm appreciation for the grand celebration tendered them. Before resuming his seat, Mr. Groves took the opportunity to introduce their best man of fifty years back, Mr. Dick Bradley.

Mr. T. E. Wright closed the group of presentations with a set of ten sterling teaspoons, inscribed with a golden crest, presented by the entire community, befitting each member of the Groves family. Mr. Wright spoke of the part that Considerable numbers of townspeople turned out on Thursday morning at the Cenotaph for the annual service of Remembrance, when members of the Canadian Legion, the Strathmore Cadet and Kaffette Corps, and the Strathmore Band were present.

Conducted by the Rev. D.A. Ford, the service was short, but quite impressive. Following a scripture reading by Mr. Ford, a Cadet guard of honour slowly reversed arms, and D. S. Little played the last post. Mr. Cliff Way, past president of the Legion then raised the flag to full mast.

RCMP were immediately notified, and a general notification was spread to police detachments, but as of Thursday morning no word had been received. Through the kindness of Mr. Jack Colwell, whose old bus was made available, Mr. Martin is continuing to bring students to their daily round.

West China Missionary Speaks Locally

Rev. Geoffrey Smith, Evangelist Missionary to Western China, who is home on Sabbatical leave held the close interest of a fair sized audience in Strathmore United Church Thursday evening when he described the work of the Missionaries under the three headings of healing, educating and preaching. The living and working conditions of the people are very backward, and superstition plays a large part in the daily routine. Mr. Smith stated, however the missionaries are much encouraged in the sincerity and devotion of the people when they once accept the teachings of the Missionaries.

Eighty percent of the women and sixty percent of the men are illiterate, he said, and their hope is to overcome this state. In the Province of Chengtu

Legion Aux. Raises 652 for Blind Fund

The regular meeting of the Strathmore Legion Auxiliary was held Tuesday evening in the Memorial Hall, Mrs. Tew presiding.

Four new members were added to the Membership roll bringing the total now to 73.

At the recent Campaign for the Blind Fund the gratifying sum of $652 was raised and the Treasurer Mrs. MacKenzie told of the great pleasure expressed by Mr. Hewlett on receipt of this amount.

The question of furnishing a room in the Blind Headquarters was mentioned but left over for future discussion.

The next meeting will be held on Friday Dec. 10, this meeting to take the form of a Social Evening for many of the older people of the Town.

Following the business a jolly social hour was enjoyed.

Rev. Mowatt Speaks At Memorial Service

Rev. A. J. Mowatt of Wesley United Church, Calgary, was the speaker on Sunday afternoon, at the joint memorial service held in the Memorial Hall under auspices of the Canadian Legion. He was assisted in the service by the Reverends D. A. Ford and A. A. Hamilton.

A combined choir was present and music was played by Miss Jean Garrett. During the service, Mrs. Mary Mercer rendered the solo quite beautifully.

The large audience was ushered to their seats by members of the local Boy Scout troop, who also assisted J. Swanson in the offertory.

where Rev. Smith labors, there are only 500 Christians in a population of 3 million. Hence the moral and Christian realm is their grave responsibility, and more helpers and financial aid are urgently needed.

A number of slides were shown some of which pictured a very beautiful countryside.

Rev. Hamilton tendered the appreciation of all to Rev. Smith for his most interesting address.

Mrs. Mickey Jones Heads Lady Curlers

President of the Strathmore ladies curling club for the year is Mrs. Mickey Jones, who was elected at their annual meeting held on Wednesday last in the curling rink. Plans for increased activities were discussed, and it is hoped to extend the efforts made last year, when the club was able to turn more than $1,000 in to the men's club to help cover the building improvement costs. This amount was made mainly through the lunch counter which the ladies operated during the season.

Other officers elected at the meeting were vice president, Mrs. Margaret Chase; secretary, Mrs. Jessie Kennedy; treasurer, Mrs. A. Morton. Members of the executive are Mrs. Edna Hughes and Mrs. Ann Bremner.

Preliminary arrangements for setting up rinks were made, and it is expected that at least fourteen rinks will be playing this season.

Water Tank Explodes At King Edward

Monday evening about ten o'clock the water pressure tank in the King Edward Hotel basement blew out one end, causing a noise of terrific explosion, inflicting small damage in the basement and interrupting water service for some considerable time.

The pump in the well had been turned on some time earlier and shortly before the explosion took place Mr. W. Tucker noticed the labored sound of the pump and went down in the basement to inspect. (Continued on Page Six.)

No Water, No Washee

The old cliché, "No ticks, no washer" was somewhat undone in Strathmore this week, when the laundry failed due to lack of water, instead of lack of ticker. In an endeavour to winterize his pump, and assure a constant supply of water throughout the season, Dave Longbottom got the pump's rod stuck tight, so he pulled out the casing to get at the trouble.

A filling of gravel, poured between the inside two inch casing and the outside pipe, caved in, and he was unable to run the casing back. It means that a new well will have to be drilled, which figures at about a thousand dollars, according to Dave. So temporarily, at least, the laundry is without water.

Meantime, to protect his customers, Dave quickly established an emergency arrangement with a Calgary firm, who undertook to handle his business until he is once more in a position to do it himself. Laundry leaves twice a week, and returns the same way, so, as Dave says, "The service is slightly better than it used to be."

In Others' Words

LITERATURE IN EDUCATION

By Dr. W. E. McNeil at the Autumn Convocation, Queen's University, Kingston, October 18, 1947

English Literature is the best single subject to provide a common element in the learning of diverse subjects. It is the only subject which has been almost everywhere studied the same subjects—Literature, history and philosophy, mathematics and science. Because teachers were similarly trained, a student who passed from a class in history to a class in English found the set of values, common beliefs and common ideals widely prevalent. An excellent way of life was firmly established. It may have been too stereotyped. But today, an alarmingly opposite condition exists. Mass education has isolated schools and universities with those who have no interest in the traditional studies and a vast variety of instruction has been provided to meet the vast variety of interests and abilities. A postcard request to a large American university for information brought one hundred and seventy different publications with offerings of thirty-two modern languages and fifty-two kinds of psychology. Education has lost its common element. There is national danger in this diversity. A common element in education is a requisite for a common citizenship. English Literature best provides it since it enshrines our way of life. All our past acclaims our future: Shakespeare's voice and Nelson's hand, Milton's faith and Wordsworth's trust in this our chosen and chanceless land.

From this corollary, if English is the subject best suited to transmit the cultural heritage and to provide a common element in education, it cannot be taught in a way that serves these purposes, and not be made as sometimes. An undigested mass of dates and sources. Listen to Lord Dunsany of Rolod round in academic diurnal courses. Where scholars prepare scholars for life. But gaudy footnotes and a threadbare wit.

And it must be more widely required. Three-quarters of our three thousand students, including all engineering and medicine, have only been taught English. There is a case for prescribing English in each year of each course in order that graduates may go out with knowledge beyond skills and a share in the cultural heritage.

I make a plea for more English composition. Sir William Pyle, in the English Review I have mentioned, reduces education to four fundamental subjects, the first of which is "Spoken and Written English." What weight of emphasis lies behind that proposal? The Greek rhetoricians taught their language as a means of convincing a free assembly through public oratory. In 1644, John Milton, in his Tractate on Education, gave chief place to "the study of the Greek and Latin languages and the art of writing—so that whether they speak in Parliament or Council honor and attention will be waiting on their lips." In 1913 Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch in his first lecture as the King Edward VII Professor of English Literature of Cambridge said:

"Literature is not a mere science to be studied, but an art to be practised. I seriously propose to you that here in Cambridge we practise writing . . . to make appropriate, perspicuous, accurate, persuasive prose, the art of convincing a free assembly through our English speech."

It all means let us study the great masters of the past . . . but let us study them for our guidance that we, in our turn, having it is to be hoped something to say in our speech of the world say it worthily.

The last war was won not only by great deeds but by great words. Words that have drawn transcendent meanings from the most ordinary things. From the best passion of all bygone time.

It is a time when we are swept through with tears of triumph and remorse. Sweet with all sainthood, cleansed in martyr-fires.

In the British Commonwealth of Nations English Literature should be the keystone of education because it preserves the cultural heritage. Listen to Lord Dunsany of Rolod round in academic diurnal courses. Where scholars prepare scholars for life.

Every great nation has expressed its spirit in Art . . . The Italians are famous for their painting, the Germans for their music . . . England for her poet's languages. It is ideally suited for the expression of emotion. There is no better language in the world for the heart and setting the imagination aflame.

BETER FARM HOMES

It should be a source of local gratification that women's organizations from this district won top place for their suggestions on "Better Farm Homes." These awards were won for a contest sponsored jointly by the provincial Dept. of Agriculture and the General Housing Corporation. Arrowwood W.I. won first prize, Burdett W.I. came second, Dinton W.I. won third and Cayley W.I. won fourth.

It cannot be entirely chance that three of the four top prizes were won by women's groups of this locality. The judges must have found in these brief features of outstanding value. Their ideas must have been of practical nature and must have been presented with great clarity. There must have been thought taken for the comfort, appearance and amenities of rural homes as well as the utilitarian nature. It is quite possible too that many of the women have had practical experience in modern home building. They have found out by trial and error just what is necessary, what is desirable and how best these details can be brought into a compact whole.

In any event, since the women of this district have proved their competence in home-planning, and have won public acclaim for their ideas, the next move seems to be up to their men folk. This prize-winning achievement should be followed up by a great spurt of rural home building in this locality.

WHOOPS! A WHOOPING CRANE

(Montreal Star)

We are highly suspicious about these reports that whooping cranes have been seen in Saskatchewan by reporters of the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix. That province has been the nesting ground of the C.E.F. so long that it would be easy to mistake a whooping crane for one of the whoopers of that whoopest of our political parties. Politically, however, whooping cranes are in Saskatchewan who is politically-minded—could easily fall into this error, especially when the skies are so full of politicians as they are now.

APPLES TO ANNAPOLIS

A traveller in Annapolis Valley, Nova Scotia, wanting to get some of the famous apples of the valley was told in a store that the only apples they had were B.C. apples. Talk about carrying coals to Newcastle!

It seems that the B.C. apples are preferred because of the packaging job that is done on them. Nova Scotia apples are packed without much reference to quality or size in sacks or barrels which are inconvenient. B.C. apples are well boxed; the apples are uniform in size; they are closely graded. There's a moral in this. It is story if we could only find it.

by
Don Graham

If you worry about the impression you make on other people, remember this: You are really important to a large number of people!

Yes, almost everyone you meet and associate with depends on you to support their self-confidence in some way. Even those who seem "high hat" and independent really want to earn your favourable opinion.

Here are some ways to make yourself even more important to others:

1. Be a good listener. Go out of your way to express appreciation of what the other fellow says and does.
2. If he is your superior, show due respect. If an assistant, encourage him and let him know that you value his services.
3. Never belittle the ability or accomplishments of others. Be a booster.
4. Don't contradict, even if you are right. State your facts or opinions in some indirect way.

By following these hints you will enjoy better personal relations wherever you are. And this, in turn, will lead to wonders for your own self-confidence!

To his family, a father is the most important person in the world. And since the family depends on him for their financial support, the typical Canadian father projects his family with life insurance.

Water Tank Explodes

investigate. He stood for quite some minutes in front of the end of the tank listening to it, then decided to return upstairs and shut it off. About two minutes later the end blew out of the tank, ripping through a wall of two by eights some five feet away, and throwing the balance of the tank, a thousand gallon tank, some six feet back into the coal pile. Had Mr. Tucker not moved when he did, it is likely the full force of the explosion would have caught him. Some of the bracing of the tank was nailed to the cellar stairs, which were broken when the tank tore loose.

The force of the explosion was quite evident in the King Edward Grill, where three customers who were sitting on stools at the counter were thrown off their stools. This was due to the blast of air hitting the restaurant floor.

Water service in the hotel was cut off until repairs were effected, though heating continued since the hot water system is on a different tank.

Town Council

Deputy Mayor Ferguson was in the chair on Tuesday evening at the Council Meeting, and Councillors B. Lewis, Chas. E. Blome, and Quirin were present. It was arranged to have a cumulative record of the year's expenditure on hand at the next meeting, since the end of the year is drawing near, and Council felt it would like to check its financial position more closely.

Complaints had been received over a couple of streetlights being out, it was reported, and Council for Chase informed the members that the Calgary Power representative, Alex Easton, planned to be in town on Wednesday, when he would remedy the situation. A draft letter to the provincial department dealing with a tax assessment case was read by Councillor Quirin, and approved.

License for a photographer's agent in town was approved.

Arling out of this matter came the question of the possibility of establishing a town business license and the matter was discussed for some time. A suggestion was made that if local businesses and travelling salesmen were to be licensed, then firms operating through agents should also be licensed. The question of enforcement was brought up, and a suggestion was made that it might cost the town more to enforce such a by-law if passed than it would gain in revenue, so it was agreed to forget the whole thing.

Mention was made of the east wall of the skating rink which had blown down in the recent windstorm, and a suggestion that the Handyman arrange to replace it was made.

Arrangements for the handling of the rink this winter came in for a long discussion, and ended with a suggestion that the full Council attend the annual meeting of the Community Council, and discuss the matter with them. It was felt that possible supervisor might also serve as a night watchman. Some feeling has been expressed in the latter matter, it was reported.

Another suggestion was made that the supervisor be eliminated altogether, and the Handyman's hours changed so that he might control a few hours of skating on some sort of schedule. One opinion was expressed that the Town's part was only to provide skating for the children, and not necessarily for the hockey teams. Hockey should support itself, this councillor suggested. It was agreed to discuss the entire matter with the Community Council at their meeting on the 26th of this month.

A supplementary report was received from the engineers dealing with the water and sewer problems, who suggested that the lane-way behind Railway Avenue was too narrow for laying both sewer and water main as had been proposed in the original plan, and suggested as an alternative laying the services in Railway Avenue itself.

One councillor recalled that the decision to use the lane had been made because of the great depth of the ditches along Railway, and the tremendous depth to which mains would have to be dug to get below the frost line. With this in mind, Council suggested that the engineers compromise on a system of laying the water main in the lane-way, and the sewer in the street. Sewer, it was felt, need not go quite so deep to be free of the frost danger.

Accounts amounting to $120 were passed.

Mr. George Davis, well and favorably known to everyone in the Bow Valley as "Trotsky", severed his connection with the King Edward Hotel on Sunday last, and is moving to Stavelo, where he will be employed as assistant manager. George has been located at the King Edward ever since 1919, and remembers many episodes of that time prior to the prohibition era, when the hotel was "wide open" on all floors. Coming to this country originally from Russia, George had a ready smile and a hearty backslap for one and all. For some time he raised a number of chickens in the back yard, together with a very colorful garden, which was often admired by passers on their way to the station.

Groves Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Groves had played in the community, and traced briefly many of the activities in which they had taken part.

A list of honour guests was then read, and following Mr. and Mrs. Groves, they were invited to adjourn to the basement for supper, where the ladies of the community had prepared a grand dinner, amid some of the prettiest decorations the dining hall has seen. Following this sitting, the remainder of the guests were served, in between sessions of dancing to a community orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Groves were married on the tenth of November, 1898 on Mrs. Groves's family home at Keith, Alberta. This was a home-stand, also, and the buildings of the Keith Sanatorium (today stand on part of the land). For the next four years, Mr. Groves continued railroading, on the Calgary to Banff run, where he was section foreman. Then in 1902, he and Mrs. Groves staked a homestead, where they present home stands. This was 160 acres, which seems very small when compared to the holdings Mr. Groves has today, amounting to some three and a half sections. There was a huge plough in the Langdon area in those days, necessitating a long curved route to the north on a trip to Calgary, which could be made with a good team in about six hours.

The first years Mr. Groves operated more in the way of ranching, ranging from five hundred to six hundred head of cattle. But in 1917, with changing conditions, started to cut down the number through selling. From that time he swung more and more into farming operations.

During his years in the district, Mr. Groves served for some eighteen years on the municipal council, latterly as reeve. He joined the Strathmore Masonic Lodge in 1923, and was made Grand Master of the lodge in 1930. He has served on the School Board of the Glencairn School from the time it was opened in 1920 until the present day. He has also been a director of Model Oils.
